

A 10x10 grid representing a 2D environment. The grid is divided into three main regions: a blue region on the left, an orange region on the right, and a white region at the top. The blue region is a large square on the left side. The orange region is a large square on the right side. The white region is at the top. There are some small white squares within the blue region.

